SHARING OF PATIENT INFORMATION

It has been decided by the practice's patient participation group that a patient leaflet is developed to assist patient's in making an informed choice regarding how and when their information is shared. For patients registered at Clee Medical Centre, there are essentially 4 types of information sharing. A brief summary of what each type of information sharing involves, where additional information can be obtained from and how a patient can opt-out of any of these types of information sharing follows;

Type 1 – Summary Care Record or SCR

Used for healthcare

Not anonymous

This is information that can be accessed by authorised healthcare professionals. An SCR only holds the following information, if it is recorded in your electronic patient record;

- Medications
- Allergies
- Adverse Reactions

Access to an SCR could be used if you have accessed a healthcare provider and were unable to answer any questions relating to this information. Such as you being unconscious after and accident being taken to accident and emergency. Further information can be obtained from:

Type 2 – Sharing within Systmone (The practice's clinical system)

Used for healthcare

Not anonymous

This is whereby a service provider who you as a patient are registered with, which can include but is not restricted to Health Visitors, District Nurses, St. Andrews Hospice and the GP out of hours service whom use the same clinical system (systmone) can have access to your electronic medical record.

This type of data sharing can be beneficial in ensuring that accurate and up to date medical records are held for each patient and in the case of any patient attending the GP out of hours service, staffs are then able to access to recent consultations with practice staff enabling this information to be taken into consideration if clinically relevant.

Type 3 – The Health and Social Care Information Centre (HSCIC)

When does the Health and Social Care Information Centre allow researchers to access confidential information about me?

In most cases, researchers can carry out their studies using information that does not identify you. Occasionally, however, medical researchers need to use information that does identify you.

Only researchers who have obtained your permission or who have been granted legal approval are allowed to access confidential information that identifies individuals. Only the Secretary of State for Health or the Health Research Authority (HRA) can grant this legal approval and they do so following independent advice from the Confidentiality Advisory Group (CAG). CAG considers each application in great detail against the legal framework, and recommends whether approval should be provided together with any conditions.

Applicants must demonstrate:

- 1) That the research is in the public interest and for the benefit of the health service;
- 2) That it is not possible to use information that does not identify you; and
- 3) It is not possible to ask your permission. There are a variety of reasons why it might not be possible to ask people; for example, where there are extremely large numbers of patients.

Access to the information is restricted to the specific information necessary for the research. All approvals must demonstrate compliance with the Data Protection Act 1998.

This legal approval is only granted where:

- 1) It is in the interests of patients or the wider public to do so; and
- 2) It is impractical to obtain each individual patient's consent; and
- 3) It is not possible to use anonymised data.

If you object, this type of information will not leave the Health and Social Care Information Centre to researchers with approval. The only exceptions are very rare circumstances such as a civil emergency or a public health emergency.

Relating to the HSCIC, there are 2 types of information sharing that you can object to:

Type 3A – Secondary use of GP patient identifiable data

Used for research

Not anonymous

You can object to information containing data that identifies you from leaving your GP practice. This type of objection will prevent the identifiable information held in your GP record from being sent to the Health and Social Care Information Centre's secure environment. It will also prevent researchers who have gained legal approval from receiving your health information.

Type 3B – Disclosure of personal confidential data to the HSCIC (health and social care information centre) Used for research

Not always anonymous

Information from other places where you receive care, such as hospitals and community services, is collected nationally by the Health and Social Care Information Centre. The Health and Social Care Information Centre only releases this information in identifiable form where there is legal approval for doing so such as for medical research.
