

Joining the Dots

We are planning to use your data in smart ways to help improve the wellness of the people in our community

By joining up the data dots between different organisations we can see the bigger picture that helps us to improve local health, prevent illnesses and ensure public money is better spent.

The application to use your data was reviewed by the Confidentiality Advisory Group (CAG). They are an independent group of lay people and professionals which provides expert advice on the use of confidential patient information without consent. CAG recommended that our application should be supported, and the Secretary of State for Health approved this.

You can choose whether your confidential patient information is used. For any questions on how we use your data locally or you require this information in a different language text or call Katie Swinburn on Mobile: 07385 360071 or email nnicb-nn.engagement@nhs.net.

If you'd like to opt out of your confidential patient information being used nationally, please contact the National NHS Digital opt-out programme on 0300 303 5678, (Monday to Friday, 9am to 5pm, excluding bank holidays).

A young girl with dark hair, wearing a white top and a gold necklace, is lying in a field of green grass. She is smiling broadly, showing her teeth, and winking with her right eye. Her hands are raised near her head.

Good or bad health is not simply the result of individual behaviours, genetics and medical care. A large part of the differences in health outcomes is linked to the social, economic and environmental factors that shape people's lives.

These factors are described as the wider determinants of health.

Studies have shown direct links between education and factors such as health and life expectancy rates. Therefore, for our population to have the best chance of a healthy life, we need to join our data together so we can proactively plan, target and deliver care differently.

Our financial situation determines the extent to which we live.
Income and healthy life expectancy is strongly related.

By using linked data, we can identify across Nottingham and Nottinghamshire those families who are in low-income households and work with partner organisations to target interventions to help.

An example is the recent fuel poverty crisis. We are able to link financial data with health data and proactively target individuals and communities who may struggle this winter.

KEEPING YOUR DATA SAFE

Any information we hold is protected by the highest levels of security. To help improve the health of people in our area we analyse information from health and care records and share data with other Public Sector organisations. However, this will never include your name or anything that could identify you. All these organisations are required to follow strict data protection law.

This project is supported by GP practices, hospitals and NHS provider teams across Nottinghamshire and focuses on improving the delivery of care to patients. It is important to us that you have control over the use of data about you and how your data is stored and managed.

For further information about this project or if you would like to opt out of your information being shared for this purpose, please contact Katie Swinburn on Mobile: 07385360071 or email nnicb-nn.engagement@nhs.net.
