

How effective is vaccination?

Vaccines are considered one of our greatest global health achievements and are estimated to save 2-3 million lives a year.

Thanks to vaccines, life-threatening diseases that used to be common in young children in the UK are now relatively rare.

