

Can YOU help with our research study?

Working to improve the care and quality of life for people living with Dementia

Research with the aim of reducing symptoms of agitation and frustration sometimes experienced by those with dementia.

The research nurse or team member will visit you in your own home. You would stay under the care of your doctor and health care services.

THE SYMBAD TRIAL

If you are interested in finding out more about how you, or someone you care for, could be involved in some important NHS funded research, please contact your local research team for more information:
